Comments FYI... this is a replacement panel. I don't know what happened - it's almost like it shrunk and the panels are pulling and won't close at the corner. I'm hoping this replacement will fix the problem.
Comment: the ring magnets are hard to install. My wife and I have been using binder clips to keep the panels closed. Do you have any other options? Not sure if we can retro fit using the magnets you slide into the bindings.

Comments We ordered panels for our pergala 3 years ago. Still great. Can you ship 2 of the white ties that we use to tie the panels to a post please? Just add what's required to our bill. This order for raw is to put netting on our inside vents as we are getting small insects flying out of the cold air vent. Any suggestions for us....I assume I have ordered the right material to catch very small insects, but still allow required air flow. thanks for all your help.

Comments I think I have it right. We have measured twice. We have a townhouse with a side entry where we will hang our mosquito curtain. There will be a long side 11-6 wide, making a bend to a short side 3-2 wide. The end on the long side will marine snap to brick and the other will rest along a diagonal brick wall. The single panel will open completely and tie to the end that is snapped in place. Can't wait to be able to enjoy our pleasant cooler weather; thanks!

Comments I just received my order and there was no flaring tool in the box. Also, are there any self tapping screws available for the marine snaps? I have to screw into a galvanized beam on my garage and the regular marine snap screws keep popping. I would hate to have to use a piece of wood. If you have self tapping ones can you send me some (approx. 15). If you have just send me a bill or a way to order them I would appreciate it. I also thought by ordering 10 black snap carriers these would be extra if I broke or lost some later. I only had a bag of 10 delivered so not even enough for the 9' length of fabric. I am like 4 or 5 short. Email me if you have any questions. The fabric looks like it will work great once fully installed. Thanks in advance for your help. Ryan

Comments the doorway I'm looking to screen off with these two panels meeting in the middle has a total width of 333cms and a height of 233cms. I did my best converting these to feet and inches, it's better to have a little excess material, right? Thanks for checking.

Comments Please refer to my email and pictures, which I sent on November 28. I think I will simplify my installation by attaching a vertical 2x2 to the walls and post where the curtain would be perpendicular to these surfaces. This way I can attach the curtain with the marine snaps easily to the side surface of the 2x2 and I don't have to worry about bending the curtain 90 degrees. If I paint the 2x2s to match the wood beam, it should look just fine. Please let me know if you disagree with this approach.

Comments Aaron, as we discussed if you could put in a couple small samples of vinyl that would be great
Thanks

Comments This is for a garage door, screen will be attached to the flashing on the sides with magnets, and the tracks are attached to the lintel above. I will try the magnets for all side seals, if they don't work, I have my own snaps I can install. Total Dimensions: width 20' 3" height 109.5"
Feel free to email/call if there are concerns with the design.
The panel width adjustments are stated multiple times using different verbiage which is confusing & may double up on some of the adjustments. FYI.

Comments This project is for a patio under a deck that has a dirt grade for 2 of the shorter no-see um panels. The 10'3'' panel-3 marked irregular needs to be 66 inches in Height (shortest on order was 72 and too long).
I am mixing attachment methods and type of curtain on purpose given the location of the curtain under the deck.

Comments You know I wouldn't have been opposed to some sort of advertising on the screen, something a passer-by could read. Have "Mosquito Curtains" embossed on to the screen material itself, classy, doesn't interfere with it's function, & it would fade gracefully over time. I looked EVERYWHERE almost 2 years & never even once heard of you guys until this year!!!
Just need replacement hardware...

Comments Panel 1 (left on diagram) is 26-6 x 102", including adjustments. The left edge of this panel will connect to vinyl siding and the right edge will meet the second panel to form a doorway. Therefore, the left edge should have velcro and the right will have the magnets. Panel 2 (right on diagram) is 2-11 x 102". The left edge will meet the other panel at the doorway, and the right edge will connect to vinyl siding. So, the right edge of panel 2 will need velcro. We would prefer black velcro on the black curtains, and white velcro attachments for the house since our siding is light beige. Also, we'd like to request 2 small velcro pieces to affix to the curtain, so we can secure the base against 2 vinyl covered posts since we don't have a good spot for marine snaps. Hopefully, this makes sense - if you have questions, please call my direct office line at 216-579-2423 during normal business hours. Thanks! Ann Marie

Comments I want a single piece of netting that is 120 inches wide and 5 feet long. How do I cut this material into smaller pieces? With a large pair of scissors?
Thanks

Comments Hi, For each of the panel I ordered I put irregular height as one end is at 118 inches height but then it goes down to 102 inches height. I will be sending pic by e-mail at the same time as ordering the panel. Note for the first 13.12ft of the panel the height slowly decreases from 118 inches to 102 inches but then for the last 9 feet of the panel the height stays at 102 inches all along. (basically the roof is slightly angles to keep the rain water away from the roof) and we are putting 2 exact same panels to cover the all area with only one opening in the middle of the patio (I will also include a drawing in my e-mail to help clarify). Thanks and regards Chantal

Comments I didn't see any place to specify, so to specify I want the clarity black sun (no see um netting).
Also, thank you for making this product and making it available by the foot - I look forward to being able to open my window again. The existing screen wasn't keeping out the no see ums and people were complaining.

Comments I am planning to us the block magnets in the curtain attaching to the stronger round magnets attached to masonry for a doorway. Will this configuration hold well for 15-20mph winds and still be easy to open the doorway? FYI: There will be 2 doorways and the other ends will be snaps every 2 feet.
